Commercial Structure Fire, Gilroy, Santa Clara County (Final)

On 4/23/16 at 1848 hours, the CSWC received a Hazardous Spill Report from Gilroy Fire Department. The report states that a commercial building that stored large amounts of cyanide and acid was on fire. The water runoff from the fire suppression effort impacted a storm drain and it was unknown where that storm drain leads to. Local residents had been asked to shelter in place.

- Per Gilroy dispatch, Gilroy generated spill report based upon a business plan indicating hazmat quantities on site however a responsible party from the business, Med Tech International advised Gilroy Fire that there were no hazardous materials stored on site.
- Fire hazmat units monitored the water runoff from suppression activities and was determined to be normal for a structure fire.
- Local environmental Health Department was notified.
- By 2045 hours the fire was knocked down and overhaul had begun and the shelter in place was lifted.
- Cal OES Duty Officers were monitoring the situation and providing updates as they became available.

WEATHER

WEATHER SYNOPSIS BY REGION:

NORTHERN CALIFORNIA AND CENTRAL COASTAL AREAS:

Medford Weather:

The cold upper level low will move to the coast today and inland tonight with a surface trough and embedded shortwave disturbance that will produce additional light rain and snow showers. Snow levels look to fall to around 3000 feet as activity tapers off late tonight. Tonight through Sunday night 3 to 5 inches of snow are forecast for the higher peaks of the Southern Oregon Cascades and warmer mountains. With warm road temperatures there is likely to be little impact on the major passes. On Monday most of the precipitation will be over lake and Modoc counties as the closed low moves into Nevada with only isolated showers west of the cascades.

Eureka Weather:

Unsettled and cool weather will continue through the weekend with periods of showers mainly north of Cape Mendocino. Frost will become increasingly likely tonight and again Monday night.

Reno Weather:

Low pressure will move into western Nevada today and Monday with more showers and below average temperatures expected. A few valley snow showers are possible for the Monday morning commute. Unsettled weather will continue through next week with below average temperatures.

San Francisco Weather:

Locally strong and gusty northwest winds will occur late today into Monday mainly near the coast and locally in the hills. Strongest winds are expected late this afternoon and evening. Otherwise dry and seasonably cool weather is forecast through Tuesday. There is a chance of showers Wednesday and Wednesday night as a weather system tracks across California from North to South.

Sacramento Weather:

Unsettled and cooler weather today and Monday, then again midweek.

CENTRAL CALIFORNIA AND SOUTHERN SAN JOAQUIN VALLEY:

Hanford Weather:

High pressure will return to Central California today for a drying trend and lighter winds. Another storm will drop into the great basin on Monday and bring another period of increased winds and mainly mountain showers. A potentially wet storm system will impact the area by Thursday. Temperatures will be near or slightly below normal through the period.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA:

Los Angeles Weather:

Gusty northwest to north winds will affect parts of the area through early next week as several moisture starved disturbances move through the region. Temperatures will fluctuate from day to day, but will generally remain near normal through midweek. Low pressure approaching from the northwest may bring cooler weather and showers to the area by mid to late week.

Extreme Southwestern California including Orange, San Diego, Western Riverside and Southwestern San Bernardino Counties:

Mostly sunny today with temperatures near or a little above seasonal averages. Cooler weather on Monday with increasing clouds, strong and gusty West winds and a chance for light showers over and West of the mountains. Dry and a little warmer for Tuesday and Wednesday. Cooler again for Thursday with a chance for showers and mountain snow along with gusty West winds in the mountains and deserts. The showers taper off on Friday but conditions remain cool before warming up a little for next weekend under fair skies.

Southeast California Weather:

A series of pacific low pressure systems are expected to affect our weather over the coming week. Lower desert highs will remain mostly in the 80s or even in the 70s through the entire forecast period. The next system will affect the region starting tonight lasting into early Tuesday bringing breezy to windy conditions but with little chance for any rainfall. Another storm system is likely for the latter part of the week with at least some chance of rain possible by then.
